AI-Generated Insights

[INFO] High Savings Rate

Your savings rate of 44.19% is higher than the recommended 20%, indicating a good savings habit. You are saving ₹113387.5 out of your total income of ₹256569.0.

Amount referenced: ₹113,387.50

[WARNING] Rent and EMI Dominance

Both Rent and EMI categories account for 31.4% of your total spend, which is ₹45000 each. This is a significant portion of your expenses, and you may want to consider optimizing these costs.

Amount referenced: ₹45,000.00

[INFO] Recurring Payments Under Control

Your recurring payments, including rent, loan EMIs, and subscriptions, are manageable and do not exceed 40% of your income. The total annual recurring payments amount to ₹1020000 (salary) + ₹180000 (house rent) + ₹180000 (HDFC home loan) + other smaller subscriptions, which is approximately 53.6% of your annual income (₹1911358). However, this includes your salary credit, which is not an expense.

Amount referenced: ₹1,911,358.00

[INFO] Investment in Mutual Funds

You have a systematic investment plan (SIP) in HDFC Mutual Fund, with a monthly investment of ₹5000. This is a good habit and can help you build wealth over time. Your annual investment in this fund is ₹60000.

Amount referenced: ₹60,000.00

[WARNING] Monthly Expenses Variation

Your monthly expenses have varied significantly, with ₹53014 in January, ₹41589 in February, and ₹48578 in March. You may want to review your expenses to identify areas where you can reduce variability and optimize your spending.
